WEEKLY MUSEUM.

WITH AWERTEST FLOWERS SWRICK'S, PROSE VARIOUS GARDENS CULL'S WITH CARE."

The state of the s 80. 6. - VOL. 2VH

sed-

g 156

1 124.

d 80

Vie

die .

1 84 Be or the with hising

ga, lbr a bair da aa

trange forfar white-irmen irmen irm iy.

is unis unis unis unis fally
Black sew by and for
a. 196
if forest, majedio buttle h they ent of

. 19.

die, chat and hav tota and s in that ny arti-

and ref

arch cha lapping F Sif.

sares,

NEW-YORK SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1805;

THE CASTLE DE WARRENNE

A BOHANCE (Constanted.)

SYOU do, indeed, distress me !" exclaimed

"How am I to act ?" rejained Lady Parome. Why did your generalty prompt you to eapuringe hopes which your resolution would not re von to realize ! --- A time may come when Ican moke you reparation for the services you my render me."

"Talk not of reperation. Madam !" cried Valimons, with an energy that made her start:—

"that is impossible."
"Tis well, young man," said Lady Bareme, with indignation; "we are your captives. You may not with the feelings of an unhappy woman in limposity." Dear Madom "said the terrified Matikla."

"Brazions God!" interrupted he, wildly, "mare! deserved this?— Yes, Madam, you still be obliged!—but, atas! pardon, and pity hall be obliged! - but, aims! pardon, and puy no desperation!"

Be subset out of the room, leaving Matilda partitles with terror. The exertions she had not were to mit h for Lady Barome; and she had now bysteries, but of which it was considerable time before she recovered. Matilda was benefitery weak and low; she felt her heart who interested in faces of the young De Laamply interested in favor of the young De La-or, and she trembled lest he should fall a meri-ture of the fury of his father. Sie, however, twented some satisfaction, from learning of La-by Barene that it was her intention to pass over in related, and siek refuge with her sister, bee; in all probability, she might find her bester and Matilda waited the return of Val-least with impatience.

All the nex rday passed-no Valtimond ap peared; and they began to imagine that he had penned his forward seal. At last their hopes were revived by the sound of his footsteps across the sloon. Matikla's heart beat high with espectation. He advanced; his looks were wild and disordered and, throwing himself on the sit, he took a bundle from under his clock.

"There, Madam," cried he; "I have complicit with your cruel request. And, how, may I applicate you to think sometimes with pity on he unfortunate De Lacy, who in losing the gralady Barome rose from her scat; she extended be hands to him, while she could no longer suppress her tears.

Generous youth my prayers, with those Dlaulds, shall always be for your happiness." Refrain, I entrear you," he roplyed, "this badiess: I can better bear your ranger; that but escited me to prove myself worthy; this shews whe irrepenble loss I am about to sustain."— Then, taking the parcel,—"Here," he continued, "are two peasur's dresses; in these, you may partitle borders in safety; and in the chantel we versels bound for any parti—In two loss is will attend you."

fie then quitted the apartment. — With pul-pitting hearts they engaged the intervening time in disposing of the few clothes they were habits Valtimond had procured so effectually disguised them, that they had no fear of destruction.

The appointed hour soon arrived, Valumous was punctual; he engaged their silence. Then, extending one hami to each, he led them down the staircase and from thence went through a back door, of which he only possessed the key. The clock just struck ten as they passed the postern gate : all was still; and the morn, which rose with unusual Instre seemed to light them on their melarcholy way.

The hand of Va'timond shook as it drew that of Matida's under his arm; and her heart beat with responsive vibration; but all observed a profound silence. Matida raised her cycs to his face, and was strock with the peasave sadness pictured there.

They soon reached the creek, where they engaged a fishing bout: the drows, watermen were with some difficulty awakened. Valumond a-gain present the hand of each to his lipsy, a tear fell unperceived upon that of Matida's, and, lifting his eves to Heaven—"May the Al-mights profect you?" was all he could utter. His roice fattered, and, clasping his bands toge ther with a box of despondency, he quitted them.

With difficulty the fair adventurers supported themselves into the boat, which immediately pushed off from land. Matilda incluiges her heart-felt grief in stence, not willing, by her own complaint, to dull the bright hopes she saw Lady Barome was cherishing. The dashing of the oars sunk them into a mouraful reverse, from which they were roused by the discordant from which they were roused by the concernant voice of their guide, who informing them of their sproach to land.—After taking some refreshment in a paltry into they obtained rearriage to Barnstaple, from whence they embarked in a vessel for Dublin harbor. The seas ran high; but the adventurous travellers, fearing to betray their sex by unseemly terror, stifled their fears, and withdrew, as much as possible, from the observation of the other passengers. royage was quick and pleasant, and with joyful hearts they beheld land, and greeted, with thanksgiving for their safety, to the Hibernian shore.

CHAP. VI.

The' pear the peasant's but, his fears the' small, He sees his little lot the lot of all; Sees no contiguous palace rent its head, To share the meanness of his humble si No conty lord the sumpruous banques deal, To make him loath his vegetable meal; But calm, and bred in ignorance and toil, Each wish contracting fire him for the soil,

IT was full eight miles across a bye country to Warrenne Abbey, from the place where they landed; and, as evening was far advanced, they entered's little hat that stood upon a dreary moor, and requested to pass the night there. them with a scrutinizing look, long before she would give consent. The meanure of their habit did not realize ally disguise them, so as the absence that native dignity of managers which even procured respect from the residence and costupers and her instruct hospitality overcoming her district, the cheerfully bet before them her usual meal of potators, rye bread, buttermile, and whinkey. Throughout the whole but there was an air of nestness and order, which, from the appearance of aix children, who were running about without any other carefring hast a abili and short stell peticion, could hardly have been expected. The youngest of those, a fine rosy choosed boy, clinities on the lone of Matie. da, and insisted upon camming a piece of raw turnip, which he was voracionally devouring, into her mouth. The woman, perceiving he was trouble some to her geessi, instantly sent theorall out to bring in firewood, though the mud at the back of the loose was full a foot doep.

Lady Rutome was automished at the hardiness of the Irish passantry, of which she laid never before been a witness, and the woman, pleased before been a witness, and the woman, pleased the fook, was going to exemplify it, at the notice she took, was going to exemplify it, by relating innumerable anectdotes of the strength, sense, and agility of Shannow. All strength, sense, and aguity of Shannow. Arrivin was yery uninteresting to her greess, where demanded whether she knew the stration of Wattenne Abbey?

"Know it!" explained the warran: "Arrah, and to be sure Led. if I knew the noise on say own face." Wy "he were tenants to the poor dear Lady who is dead; and a swate pretry own the war, by my fair he."

sowl she was, by my faith !" Barone .- 'Oh, Heaven !" It was with difficulty she kept from fainting,

"My Lady De Warrenne has been dead these four-teen years; and the Abbey is now the stroperty of Sir Arthur De Warrenne, my the Lord's brother."

The women was too much absorbed in her

The women was too much absorbed in her own story to notice the agitation of her guiet, who was wound up almost to madness by the second shock.—The woman resumed:—"Not that we are so proud of the change.—"neither was he: for he soon after took a deadly hateto this place, and went away, God knows where and left the abby to the care of an old monster, who won't let nobedy goin,—not they, for it seems there has been foul work; and it is eaid that the peor dear Latty's ghost walks there with a child's skeleton in her arms."

Lady Barome attered a cry of horror, and analy speculies on the earth. Matida, fairful ef discounging her, told the woman that they were related to her latt! Lady, begging to be left alone with her brother. The woman readily compliced, and Matida soon succeeded in recovering Lady Barome, who threw her arms round Matida's neck, exclaiming—

"Ah! In an wavest friend!—what will become of us!—Would that I had been persuaded by the prudent De Lacy!"

Matida sighed, involuntarily—"Dear De Lacy!"

"Ah!" cried Lady Barome.

Lacy!"

"Ah!" cried Lady Barume; "" wretch that
"Ah!" Lam!— I now see all.— And have I made you mierrable, my only friend?— You love

De Lack .- Speak ; - confirm my fears!" -- | ... Matilda trembled.

"What is it you ask ?" she demanded. -wards us, would be bu: to express a mercenary idea.—How were it possible for a girl of my abject fortune to aspire to De Lacy ?- No! no."

Tears cheaked her atterance. Lady Barome became fraction

"Why not?" cried she ;—" you are worthy of him.—Were he to desert you for want of birth or fortune, he would be undeserving of your affection. But I see how it is. I have destroyed all your prospects of happiness; and think not that I will live to hear the self-reproach which thought alone must bring upon Big 1/2

Matilda flung herself at her feetnot thus, my beloved Lady. Live yet for your son -your Raymond! -- We may yet be hap-Py !"

Lady Barome recovered some composure.

At last, turning to Matrida, she said—

"Have you courage to follow me in a bold enterprise?"

"Do you suspect me capable of deserting you?" rejoined Matilda.

" Pardon me, my love, if I have hurt your feelings; but, what I require of such an extraordinary request it is to accompany me to the Abbey, where, I think, I can procure admittance. My design for such a proceeding, is, to discover whether any traiterous practices have been made use of to deprive my sister of 16fe . 15

Matilda endeavored not to dissuade her from the enterprise; she had never been accustomed to entertain fears of supernatural agency, and was not in the least appalled at the idea of residing in a haunted abbey. She, therefore, assured Lady Barome of her readiness to attend her; and they continued fixing plans for their conduct, till their hostess summoned them to break fast.

The woman, agreeable to a request made by Matilda, sent her eldest son with them to shew the way; first assuring them that they would never get in. They offered to reward her for her trouble: this she resolutely declined, protesting she had as much money as she knew what to do with; and, for the rest, St. Patrick would reward her.—They then departed, pre-ceded by the lad, who now and then pointed out to them the beauties of the surrounding country. The road was regged, and they felt themselves extremely weary by the time they came within view of the Abbey. Having no farther occasion for the boy, they dismissed him, and seated themselves upon a fragment of the fallen ruins, to survey, at lessure, the stupendous ed fice.

(To be Continued.)

FEMALE CRUELTY.

SEMIRAMIS, wife of Ninus, king of Assyria, was a very ing hious and beautiful woman, whom her husband passionately loved, and was very constant and faithful to her; and she being sensible he would deny her nothing, desired him as an evidence of his affection, that he would resign the government to her for five days.

The king suspecting no ill, complied with her request; and now having the power in her own hand, she caused her husband to be mer-dered on the public scatfold, and then userped he throne.

For the New-York WEEKLY MUSECH.

A MORNING RAMBLE.,

Written at Gawanes (L. t.) in August last.

THE tints of morn broke in the castern sky, The dusky shades of night began to My; Aurora with her rosy chining train, Was seen emerging slowly from the main.

The resecuting beams of light appear, And with their lustre streak the radiant ophere; The dew-besprinkled flow'rathat nightly mourn, Shed teurs of pity at the return of morn.

Refresh'd by balmy sleep, nature moukes, And from the elugish reign of Morpheus breaks; Sweet Philometa quits the leafy spray, And mounts atoft to hart th' approaching day.

With soft emotions glowing in my breust, Blithe as the souring lack I rose from ren; Swift to the chamber where my fair one sleys I flew; and gently at her window saps.

Anna ! my fair, awake !- my love arise-" The sun is ris's - the stars have quit the skies-" The morn invites to walk-the landscape's gay-

" Health floats around-refreshing sephyrs play-

Anna arose, fair as the orb of light, Yet placed as the virgin queen of night; In beauty's fairest mould her form was cast, While each bright virtue glow'd within her breast.

Charm'd by the harmony that fill'd the groves, Where aweetess ungsters warble forth their loves; With souls attun'd, all glowing with desire, We hasten'd forth to join the tuncful choir.

Across the laws o'erspread with blooming flow'rs, Down the lone va'e, amidst sequestered bow Where native beauties are around display'd, I findly ramble'd with my beautous maid.

On the shorn green, beneath tall waving trees, We sit, and listen to the passing breeze; Or o'er the flow'ry banks delighted stray, And in sweet converse talk the hours away.

Descending now along the river's side, With ravial'd eye we view the limpid tide; Whose polish'd surface undisturbed lay, While gentlest arphyrs on its bosom play.

The finny tribes that sport beneath the flood, Drew round the mossy rock on which we stood : With mute attention fondly seem'd to gaze, As if they wish'd to speak blest Anna's praise.

To me a goddow half divine she neem'd As from her pensive eye compassion beam'd; In her fair form the graces all were join'd, While nobler beauties grac'd her fairer mind.

Ambitious to possess such heav'nly charms, I clasp'd the blessed maid within my arms; And by the flood that unceasingly rolls, To love we offer'd up our kindred souls.

IMPROMPTU.

ON RECEIVING A LETTER IN BAD BLANK VERSE.

YOU sent me what you call blank verse-The very name you've hit; \ For blank, indeed, it really is Of either sense or wit.

REMARKABLE INSTANCE OF GENERA SITY.

AN ACTUAL PACT.

I WERE standing at my door one treeing, contemplating the beauties of a most large sunset, when a poor old woman, extremely in firm, sat her down upon by step to rest i She had two herrings wrapt up in a cablege but in one hand, which, when she had seated bereif, she laid down upon the step by her side, and stick to support her tottering frame in the other, In a few minutes after another woman came up, and asked me to buy her matches. I'del er I did not want any. She had a child in ber hand, of about seven years old; and having so casion to rest her foot apon the step for sone thing, her cloak fell back, and discovered a most beautiful little infant. I ventured to at the woman its age: she replied, six weeks. I think it was the sweetest cherub fever an, " have not long sold matches," said the poor so-man, while tears started in her eyes. "I had once a comfortable house, decensly furnished, is live in. When I had lain in of this child (per ing to her infant) a formight, the woman the I have since been obliged to pawn what this she left, to support myself and children. About the same time my husband met with an accide and of which he still lies in St Barthole Hospital; and though I cannot contribute asy assistance to him, yet it is some calisfactor fo him to see me. I send this lad (showing he lad to me) every morning to the Hospital; for all the sick have an allowance of pottage; and out of what they leave, the nurses are so good as to give him a hearty breakfast." As soon as the unfortunate woman had finished her tale of war unfortunate woman (whom I before spoke) these the old woman (whom I before spoke) these one of her two herrings into her hand. To other, almost petrified with astonishment, resed it; but the old woman would take so de and persisted in her a ceptance of it, which the did; and I reflected within myself, that, his the widows mite, how far superior, how far mon blest, was that little boon, than ten times the worth from the rich and ostentations! And I then acknowledged the justness of Gray's resark in his ode to Spring :

> How wain the ardes of the exceed, How low, how little are the prose when so poor a woman could at all times be redy to halve her little treasure with a fellow creature in distress!

REMARKABLE INSTACE OF FILIAL PIETY.

AT the instant of time that some ransoned christian slaves were about to be discharged at Algiers, the cruizers brought in a Swedish vesel, whose commander was the father of cas of those ransomed captives, and as such embraced his son, then released from a long state of starery. The young man immediately addressed himself to his aged father, "Sir, the slavery you are brought into, will be unsupportable to you, and soon put an end to your life; the thoughts of which is death to me. I have spor out a great many years, and know the country, the people, and their work; if they will accept of me in your stead, I will go back into price.
The condition was accepted by the Moors; the father was released, and the sea returned lass slavery.

BOFT sym Tis thou co And bid

Thy tender We feel the And All The soul th

Can bid the And chee

> For 2NCU I Eper to Howe'c Spare

While 2 Prompt Suy hou Super c All the Inturn

"HAT cry of a seemed t the one her carewith sigl wheace drop of ability "Hav & Alas > my inf overwi m the animre: ping li anxiety degree bing h wards, if she bassies:

protec all wa friend der, a Wi and go bility ed the ted, " chaly to the descr 1 did te de evu.

Partie Nav. Your Weenly Momore. ON SYMPATHY.

SOFT sympathy thou balm to pining grief. Thou kindly soother of the wounded soul; "Tis thou canst give the troubled breast relif. And bid the tear of gentle pity roll.

20

her. e leaf and a

Came I 'hold

in her ng ocsome-red a

e air

. "! " ". ! in!

point.
who
, and things

Aberra

a ary in for ig the

i sad nod sa

as the f way

thrut

The

refu lenials h she like es the

-

e rei-

r crea-

AL

ged at one of lavery ble to i; the e spun unity, accept prison.

d inte

The tender influence bide the rising sigh, Of convolution excel the melting breast ;
We fed the soft contagion quickly My,
And fill our bassess with a pleasing ensure.

The soul that's warm'd by sympathetic love, dilectates and calms the troubled wind ; Can hid the gloom of deep distress remove, And cheer the heart to dark despair resina'd. NESTUR.

For the New-York Werkly Museum.

TO MISS

INCOMPARABLY mild and winning, Ever with new beauties shaine; Howe'er employed you chance to be, Spare one thought and think of me.

While graceful in the dance you move Prompting all, you view, to love; Say how happy must I be, If you kindly think of me.

Same compliance with the dwelling, All the rest in wit excelling . In turn of thought forever new, RUGENIO. Think of me as I of you.

THE BEGGAR GIRL.

A FRAGRENT.

"HAVE pity on a wretched orphan," was the ery of a young girl, who, by her appearance, seemed to have moved in a higher circle than the one I beheld her; the tears trickling down hercare-worn cheeks, and her bosom heaving with higher that seemed to read the heart from whence they came, as she addressed a beautiful young creature, whose eye glistened with the drop of humanity as she surveyed her. My sen-sibility induced me to draw nearer, for the purpose of hearing their discourse.

"Have you no friends?" was the question.
" Alas! Madam, I had a father, who fell in the buther of his courty. I was brought up from my infancy with the tenderest care. This shock overwhelmed us. The affliction of my mother, whe dreadful news, is impossible to describe; saure could not stand the blow; like a droo-ping liv, she withered, and died. Oh! Madam, had you seen her on her death, had, what trade you seen her on her death-bed, what tender saxiety she expressed towards me, with what a degree of affection she pressed me to her throb-bing heart. Alas! that heart will never beat wards, heaven, as she clasped me in her arms, as if she seemed to supplicate the divine Being to protect me—Ah! now she's gone. Our little all was seized by mercises creditors; and friendless, and unprotected, I'm doomed to wander, a preyto misery and fatigue."

With a countenance that beamed humanity and gentleness, while the pearly drops of sensi-bility ran down her "damask cheek," she reheved the distresses of the wretched girl; whilst the humble mendicant, with difficulty, articulated, " God bless you," in such a tender, melanthely, impressive tone, that immediately spoke to the feelings. "God bless you," seemed to be borne on every breeze. 'Tis impossible to describe how affected I was. Suffice it to say, I did what a man of humanity and honor ought te do. She is now in a place, secure from every

NEW-YORK, FEBRUARY 9, 1805.

Thirty-sic Douths have occurred in this city during the last week, ending the 2d hot.

On the evening of the 10th uit. Stephen Arnold, by occupation a Schoolmaster, of Burlington, Otsego County, while teaching an orphan child who lived with him to read, wanted her to pronounce the word gig, jig, the child being but six years and ten mouths old, but she could not prenounce it jig, but gave it its true pronunciation gig, at which the inhuman tutor flew into a passion, took the child out at the dwor, stripped its clothes ever its head, and tied them to a stake, by which the child was suspended and exposed to the inclemency of the weather; after which he took eight green suds, tempered them by the fire, and beat the child till it was one continued sore, from its shoulders to its legs; after keeping her in this situation for the space of two hours, he then carried her in, when his wife exclaimed "Arnold I fear you have killed the child !" to which he replied, "wash she with run, and give her some to drink, and she will do well enough," which was done, and the child put in bed, where it lay till the 12th, when they began to despair of its recovery, and called in a physician, but, by the bye, did not inform him what had happened to the child. The physician imagining the child to be troub-led with worms, left the medicine accordingly; the child still grew worse, and on the 13th Arnold went again for the doctor and unfolded the mystery, together with a promise of a deed of half his estate, admitting he would cure the child and keep the secret. But it was too late, for on the arrival of the doctor, he found that medical counsel was necessary, for which Ar-nold was sent, who called doctor Day, from whence he went to acquaint the child's mother, after which he was tracked to a swamp; but having found his way through to a road, he made his escape. The child lived till the 14th, and then expired.

Arnold was seen on the 16th (between this village and the Little-Palls) travelling to the West-ward. He is a man of a middling stat-36 years of age with a down look, a little bald on his forehead, with a spot about the big-ness of a dollar a little back of his crown, quite bald. The spirited inhabitants of Burlington, have raised by confribution the sum of 100 dol-lars, which is offered as a reward to any person who will apprehend this audacious villain and fugitive from justice, and secure him in any goal, that he may receive all merited punish-

. [Herkimer pap.

The Ville INTERESTING INFORMATION.

Letters, we are informed, have been received in town from Lisbon, as late as the 26th November. These letters state that the blockake of Cadiz was resumed by Sir J. Orde, and that a war between Spain and England was deemed inevitable. In addition to this, it was said that divisions were fomenting in the interior of Spain, and that the king, through fear, had actually left Madrid, and had feed to Portugal. The intermajority, and has need to Portugal. The inter-est of the contending parties demanded the neu-trality of Portugals, but in case that interest should not avail, and she should be drawn into the war, there was no doubt but hostility to England woold be the final result. One of these fetters states that there was every probability that the whole North of Europe would be engaged in the war before the ensuing spring.

COURT OF HYMEN

BLEST state ! where tills no more analy ! Where Heav'n the flame approves ; Where beats the heart to nought bis joy, And ever lives and loves.

On the 20th ult. by the Rev. Dr. Townley, Mr. Corrland V. Gifford, to Miss Mary Rice.

Same evening, by the Rev. Dr. Townley,

Mr. Hobert Collins, late from England, to Man Philetty Haven, of this city.

Cn Saturday 26th. alt. by the Rev. Dr. Austin, Mr. Smith Burner, of New-York, to Miss Phabe Halstead, of Elizabeth Town.

On Saturday evening last, Mr. William Whelply to Mrs. Sarah Woods, widow of the late Capt.

to Mrs. Saran woods, wigow of the size Capa-Woods, both of this city last, at Brook Haven, (L. I.) by the Rev. Dr. Hallock, Mrs. James Smith, Merchant, of New-York, to Mins Etiza Sell, daughter of Mr. Wessel Sell, of that place.

At Philadelphia, by the Rev. Bishop White, Mr. Philip S. Church, of New-York, to Miss Asse Matilda Senart, daughter of the late Gen. Stewart of this City

MORTALITY.

BACH hour Death warms as by an auful call; Ruch hour our fellow-mortals round us fall.

DIED.

On Tuesday morning last, at the house of his friend Mr. James Watson, the Hon. JOHN SLOSS HOBART, in the 17th year of his age; Judge of the Datrict Court of the Distant of New-York.

At Savannah, Georgia, Dr. NOBLE WIM. BERLY JONES.

On Wednesday last, Mr. GABRIEL W. LUDLOW in the 71st year of his are.
Suddenly Mr. JOSEPH CUTHBERT, a native of Ireland.

At Boston, THOMAS MACDONOGH. Esq.

Consul of his Britannic Majesty, for the Eastera Department of the United States, aged 65. At his house in Germantown, JUSTUS FOX type-founder and Printer, aged 69.

At Flushing (L. 1.) the 3d uit. Mrs. ABt-GAIL HAVILAND, an old and respectable inhabitant of that place. Very suddenly at his house in Brooklyn, King's County, Major JOHN COVENHOVEN, aged fifty-five.

INFORMATION TO THE POOR.

The Humane Society, furnish good and nour. ishing soup to the poor, without charge, on ap-plication at their Soup house, No 6 Francora-

25,000 Dollars the highest prize.

For sale at this Office, No. 3 Peck-Slip, TICKETS IN LOTTERY, No. 3, FOR THE ENCOURAGEMENT OF LITERATURE.

TICKETS,

IN THE SIXTH CLASS OF THE SOUTH BADLEY CANAL LOTTERY TEAMINED HERE.

> TOM GARD'NER. For Sale at this Office,

FOR SALE AT THIS OFFICE. THE SEST RHEUMATIC OINTMENT : It has been applied and proves an offectual cure, giving relief in forty-eight hours.

SONNET

GRIEVE not, my friend, since face decreed Your little hopes for once to blight; Altho'if perents will mistead, I ask, will strangers set you right?

Ah, no, the world is not so kied, And real sorrows come enow: Let not, then, trifles pain your mind, bor else your griefs will ever fon.

Bear up against the adverse blast, For oft is blows both keen and rude; Nor let your soul be overcast, Should e'ern troubled gust inrede; Bat may you meet, with fortitude, Both Joy's and Grief's vicissitude.

ANECDOTE

A Certain coroner near Witham, on bisfreture an inquest on the body of a man, who was found dead in a barn, with his hands full ef corn which he was supposed to have grasped in the agenies of death, was followed for the space of a mile on the road by a man, crying out, Stop, stop sir, stop. The coroner halting at his instance, the men care up, and after much pause, for went of breath asked his honour if he might safely yenture th take the corn out of the man's hand? or whether he must be buried with it? declaring at the gone time the sobriety and honesty of the decessed. The coroner smiling at the poor fellow's superstitions turn (to carry on the joke) arriously told him. That if the decaned was a seriously told him, That if the deceased was a suber, honest men, he believed he might venture to take the corn out of his hands. And the mun secured highly satisfied, and much rejniced.

FRENCH STORE. No. 253 PROAD.WAY,

Opposite the New-City-Hall.

P. DUECIS, tou the honor to inform the public that he has removed his store frien No. 8; William-Street, he has semonest bie etore friem No. 8; William-Sireet, to the above place, where he keeps a choice affortment of Perfamenty Jewelry and fancy afficies, cits. The poma-tum plain and returned powder, Performs of all sorts, a wariety of stented snaps and wash-balls, milk of rores, India wood, rablets, face and pearl namers. Antique oil awest scanted peas, burning positions perfame openiments the celebrated checaller Ruspins's Describes, the dramack lip salve, tostoir-aheil, isory, born and lead Camilla solitors, perchaires, and into strops, desaing bogge, detain ficial flowers and planner, 'Istate and geron gaines, appelling bottles, pinching and sunling torques, gold prail and hag bettles, pinching and senting torques, gold prost and pute eatings, ladies and geniferace's suspendent finiset, and all kinds of ersamental his for lating, head disease,. The Jeason's sea violet of log finishesing preserving and retening the bair, the circassian, liquid that gives in a few minures a jet black often contachaits and a variety of other sericles will waitabled, of the best aind and sold as a

E. D. keeps as want his Intelligence office, where see to be bad ervente of every description and circumstances will them of Good Calecter.

Oft sy 1804r

SARK USCIEN WANTED.

An apprentice at this Office; a youth be tween 15 and 16, years of age, will meet with good encouragement by applying exabore.

na ou evening him bold are, giving rettel in forcy right cour

MORALIST. ANGER

ANGER being always stiled a short madgess' no less dangerous than deforming to the possens where it reignst Men should allow themselves lessure to consider the consequences of it, before they suffer themselves to be precipitated into pussion. One saying to Diogenes, after a rude passion to a syng to nogenes, sites a rade fellow had spit in his fice, sure this bise affront will make you angry;" "No," said the philoso-pher, but I am thinking whether I ought to be so or not, if excess of angar be a man's blind aide, he should study to conceal it, less be gives his enemy an advantage to wound him in a senaible part. When men are moved to it, they ought to sound a retreat to their exasperated spirity, lest, being too much heated, violence shoul! usurp the seat of prudence, and a minute's fury dwaw after it a subject of long repentance.

NEW NOVELS.

For Sale at this Office, No. 3 Peck-Slip, Herrors of Oakendale Abbey.

Dorval, Or, the Speculator,

Three Spaniards, A Romance,

> Gonsaivo, The Spanish Knight,

Amelia, Or, the Influence of Virtue.

Mysteries of Udolpho. A Romance.

Tale of the Times.

Romance of the Forest.

Don Raphael, A Romance.

Evelina. Or, a young ladice entrance in the world.

Italian, Or, confessional of the Black Penitopps.

Father and Daughter, By MAN OFFE,

What Has Been.

Vicar of Lansdewne.

Emeline, Or, the Orphan of the Cantile N. SMITH.

Chimical Perferent, from Land-a, take M exception, Powder and Ferture absorbactory, ine Golden Rose, No. 214 Broadway, appoint the City Hotel, SMITH's improved chimical Milk of Roles & well hnown for clearing the Shin from fewf, pimples, set, arts or fan burns : has not its uqual for prefering the fit to extreme old age, and is very line for gentleme.

per bertle, ar 3 dolla. per quett. Smith's Lomade de Groter, for thickwaley the belt, for keeping it from coming out or thinking gray; as, and he per post, with printed directions. His faperfice white Mair Funder, so, per ft, Man, Viser, double famored, as, dat.

His besutiful Role Powder, to 6d

Smith's favoyoute Royal Palle, fut walking the his making it favouth, delicate and fair, to be led only as ore, with directions, 41, and 25- get por, Smith's chimical Deputifice Tooch Powden, forthe

Tenh and Guma, werrawed, z and 4t, ner hux, Smith's Vegetable Ronge, for giving a natural calor to the complexion; likewife his Vegetable or Fastl Cofming immediately whitesing the fitie.

All kinds of forest forgets Waters and Effice ery article necofficy for the soiles, warraned, Smith's Chimical Risching Cohes, for meking thisis Liquid Biecking Almond Powder for the Skin, y. I Smith's Circuffin Oil, for glotling and heeping the hi in curl. His parified Alpine Shovlag Cohe, made o Chimical principles to help the operate

Smith's celebrared Corn Plaifler, 3s per bos,

The best warranted Concave Rasots, Mistic & Strop, Staving boars, D.casing cases, Pendalon, & Tortoife-shell, Ivory, and Hoto-combs, Saparine w Sareh Spelling-bottles, dre. de. Lodies & Communill-not unty have a faving, but fiave their goods fielt & free from aduleration, which is not the cafe with imposal perfumery. . Great allamence to thofe who bey !

January 1, 1805.

835, ly.

80.7

TH

WAR mmmit :

torreta s

their sp been bo played to most etc birds of tions fo

tern w

met, th were a fretted ters, th find an milen :

in ther

pile.

Ater

Cerbe

in a ve alting could

Warr

but, t

quest Cleat Plies. Th

by w tily,

Pery

mea!

mak

COM

fate rang tric

who

the

ay

T

LIQUID BLACKING

TICE's improved thining liquid blacking for house those and all leather that requires to be kept black, is moverfally allowed the best ever offered to the making in eve corrodes nor crake the legiber but scades a felt, fimouth and beautiful to the left, and never fails. Back nements and prayring to the last, and away fails. But, morecone the her loft its luftle is reflored equal to away, the use of this blocking. Sold wholefule, retail, and the expertation, by J. Tion at his perfumery those. Mr. 15 William-firet, and by G. Camp. No. 147 Williams, there, and he will be thunkfully exceeded, and make a state of the control stely executed.

To prevent construction, the directions on every banks will be figured J. TICE, in writing, without which they f. Tice has likewife for fale, a general offe

Perfenery of the full quality. Dec. 19

MILENARY SELLING OFF.

A Saundere informs his enstemers, and the public, the or naundres natures his canadement, and the public, the he is determined to quit the Millenny business, and has at present a handsome issuerament of apit arrow Hannel-boness, imperial chip do, mill easy other middle sub-tises, all of which will be had at first cost, and many afte-cies far motheless. He would recommend to then the are in word of any, of the articles that he hasto call sad as split siraw bonnets to sell on comm attention of merchanic that may, wish them for shipping? or for country merchance.

Jan. 18, 8366.

NEW-YORK:

PRINTER AND PUBLISHED FOR THE PROPERTURE

No. 3 PECK-SLIP.

One Dollar and Fifty Cents per annua